Panic Reported Among Ger-

By NATALIA RENE

MOSCOW, July 20.—(INS)—Red Army forces converged from all directions today on the German-held Polish bastion of Lwow and Russian troops now can see the city clearly, the Soviet newspaper Izvestia reported.

Izvestia declared that the whole German line outside Lwow is crumbling. Several important strongpoints covering the immediate approaches to Lwow were reported captured from the Germans who were described as fighting back furiously.

Waves of Tanks
The Germans were said to be throwing in waves of tanks, mobile guns and infantry in the relentless counter-attacks which were repeatedly thrown back with heavy losses to the Nazis.

LONDON, July 20.—(INS)—Hitler has ordered German troops from Denmark sent to East Prussia to deal with disturbances resulting from the swift approach of the Red Army, the Moscow radio said today.

Panic was reported spreading everywhere in East Prussia. German police were said to have designated certain main roads as out of bounds for civilians in order to keep them open for military purposes. Fleeing civilians were reported jamming roadways and hindering traffic.

The Russian legions were sweeping forward all along the Ippamie battlefield from Lake Ladoga to Lwow. They smashed across the Bug river into pre-war Polish territory.

PA NEWC Observes

Talk about optimism! A man in Virginia apparently couldn't get tired in his own state so he wrote to the local radio board to see if they could get some for him. The board is sorry, but—

Now the boys who fish and dive for pennies in the dammed up water under the East Washington street bridge have added sand bags to the stones of their dam.

"Ye Olde Swimm'n' Hole" dammed up at the bridge on East Washington street, is being well occupied by kids endeavoring to keep cool. Their voices of excitement while in the swim, also attracts wide attention of passersby.

With the many repairs made from time to time on old Cascade street, it still gives one the creeps while riding over it in the automobile, with its constant "washboard jolts."

Autoists not having their cars inspected by July 31 will have to step on it, if they want to get under the wire.

A dog, a white fairly good sized canine and apparently someone's pet, was seen on Richfield avenue Wednesday afternoon, going at a good pace with about a four foot chain attached to his collar, dragging along side, indicating that he had broken loose.

Soviet Army Eight Miles From Prussia

LONDON, July 20.—(INS)—A Berlin military spokesman reported today that Soviet armies have struck to the vicinity of Augustovo, eight miles from the East Prussian frontier.

The spokesman was quoted in a wireless dispatch by the German Transocean agency.

Between Grodno and the East Prussian frontier, he said, "the bitter fighting has reached Augustovo, eight miles from the East Prussian frontier."

Ordnance Plant Ordered Opened

Keystone Ordnance At Meadville To Resume
Production Of TNT

Closed since last January, the $46,000,000 Keystone Ordnance plant at Meadville has received orders from the government to begin production of TNT again as soon as possible, according to Lt. Edwin H. Arford, commandant.

Erected several years ago, at a time when the nation's production of TNT was extremely limited, only one line of the four-line plant was ever used. When it starts up again, two lines will be used, running the plant at 50 per cent of its capacity, it is anticipated.

Production will probably begin in about 60 days. Lieutenant Arford said, "The plant is being called back into use because the tremendous use of heavy artillery shells on the invasion front has exceeded the government's expectations."

Covering thousands of acres around Meadville, the plant is one of the largest in the United States. It and several other TNT plants were part of the national defense effort preceding the entrance of the United States into the war, when the government had to suddenly increase the military power of the country.

Essential to the Allied drive, production at the plant will probably call for hundreds of workers, it is estimated.

Washington Roundup

(International News Service)

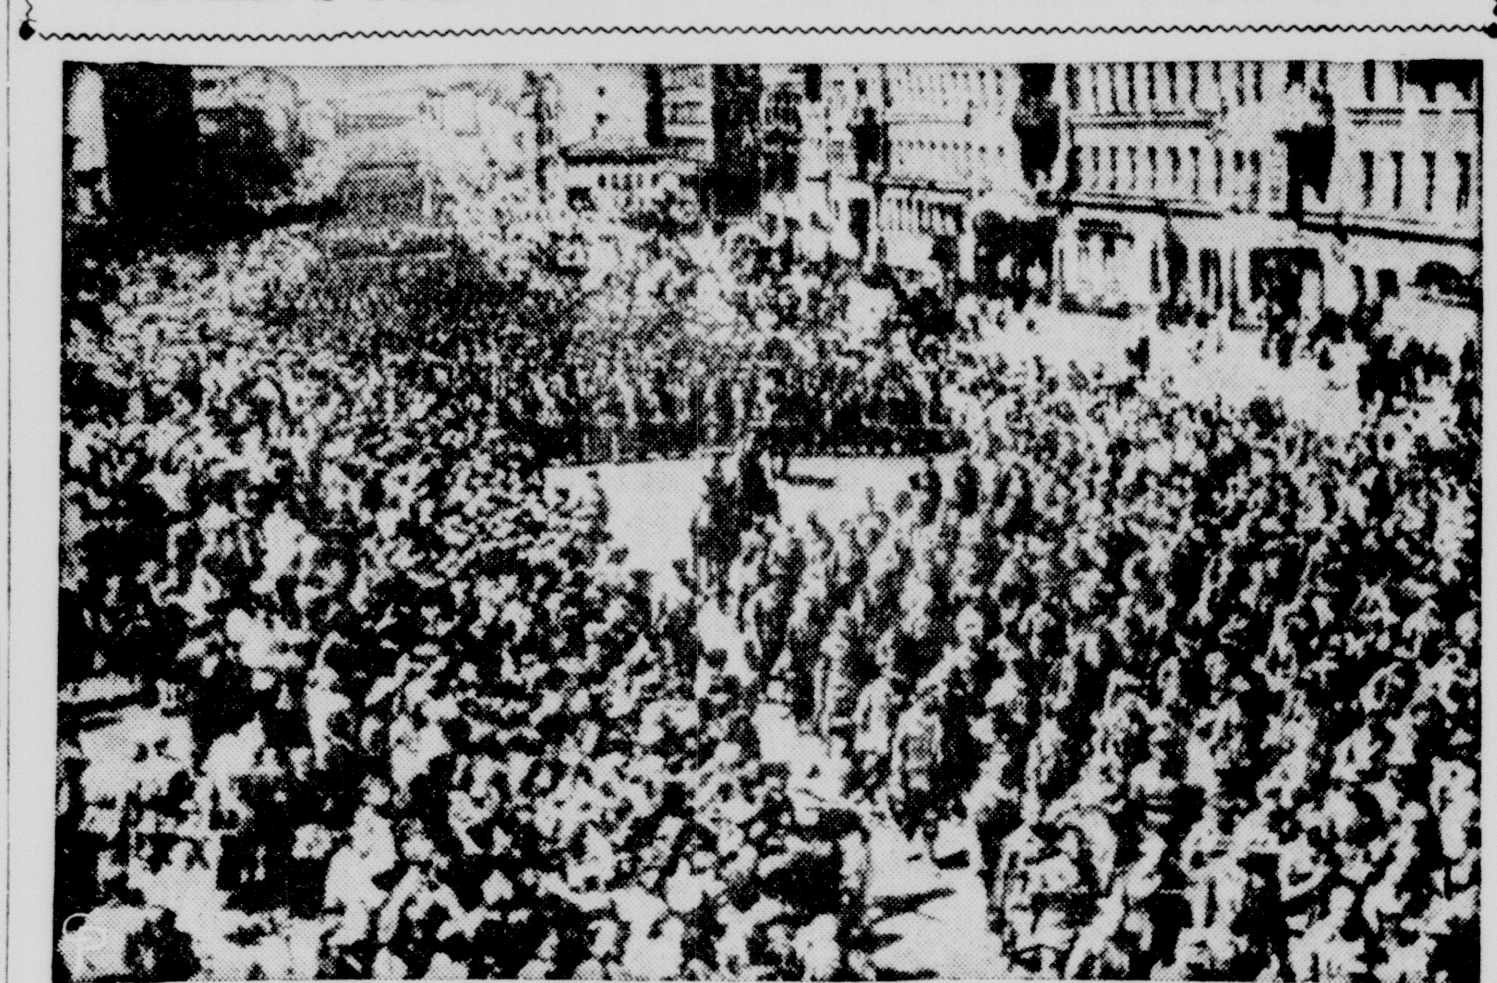

War experts in Washington believe today that American forces are getting ready to strike new blows at the Japanese to further complicate the Nipponese situation at home, already climaxed by the resignation of the Tojo cabinet. The next targets appear to be Guam and nearby islands in the Marianas but these moves will probably be merely a sideshow in preparation for anticipated early drives into the Philippines and China.

From officials of the state department meanwhile comes details of the negotiations now going on between America and Spain. It is exclusively revealed that America is seeking landing rights in Madrid, Barcelona and the Balearic Islands for postwar aviation. Spain, in return for these concessions, is asking aid in development of her domestic airlines.

Army officials, reinforcing their plea for a drastic cut in non-essential travel, disclose that approximately 37,000 ambulatory casualties were transported by train to hospitals throughout the United States from March 1 to July 14. The figures does not reflect the casualties sustained in France since opening of the European invasion.

HITLER'S FIGHTERS SEE MOSCOW AS PRISONERS

This is an overhead view of German prisoners being conveyed through Moscow. For an hour and a half a steady stream of the captives marched through the Russian capital on their way to internment. There were no demonstrations by Russians who observed the parade, but most of them were thinking that the "supermen" finally got to Moscow—as prisoners, not conquerors.

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

CONVENTION STADIUM, CHICAGO, July 20.—Permanent Chairman Samuel D. Jackson told the fourth term Democratic convention today that America "cannot afford to take a chance" with the lives of its fighting sons or its destiny and will not vote for a "frightening" change to a Republican administration.

Pounding home the theme of the 1944 Democratic campaign—that election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey would mean "change, interruption and delay" on the road to victory—the Indiana senator declared:

"Secret Weapon
"We must not allow the American ballot box to be made Hitler's secret weapon!"

He pleaded with the nation not to take from the boys overseas "their commander-in-chief."

Jackson placed Dewey in the category of "uninformed, inexperienced

Edda Mussolini Seeking Safety

LONDON, July 20.—(INS)—The London Daily Sketch reported today that Edda Mussolini, daughter of the former Italian dictator, now is in Switzerland seeking permission to live in Argentina with her family.

She is the widow of Count Galeazzo Ciano, recently executed on Mussolini's orders.

A representative of the puppet Italian Fascist government was said to be in Buenos Aires negotiating for a small estate in behalf of Edda.

The newspaper said it was believed that Mussolini himself might also seek sanctuary with Edda if the Nazis collapse.

Handwriting On Wall For Japanese Empire

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIGIE
(Written Especially For U. S. S.)

By dismissing Premier Hideki Tojo, Japan's mikado acknowledges over his imperial seal a fact that has long been evident to outside observers, namely that the handwriting is on the wall for Nippon in its war with the United States, and that the letters are so big that they are plainly visible even in Nippon.

Tojo was head of the extremist group of Japanese statesmen and war lords who were responsible for the sneak punch attack on Pearl Harbor. That looked like a great achievement at first, but for a long time now it has been quite evident that it represented the most colossal blunder ever made in the history of Japanese policy.

By RICHARD V. HALLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, July 20.—Threat of invasion hung heavier over Guam today after the Jap-held former American possession in the Marianas was pounded for the fourth consecutive day by a flaming torrent of shells from United States battleships, cruisers and destroyers.

Battleships continued to lend their great destructive power to the sustained sea assault through Monday and Tuesday, making a total of five straight days that Guam's defenses have been hammered by American warships. Cruisers and destroyers executed four previous attacks this month.

Next Objective

The latest communiqué issued by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said that America's attacking fleet "laid down an intense barrage and that Guam would be the ultimate objective of the present operations."

Cruiser planes and bombers also kept up their non-stop pounding of Jap installations on Guam, dropping a record of 320 tons of explosives Monday and 148 additional tons Tuesday to begin the third week of a continued aerial attack.

Rota island, north of Guam, also was attacked again Monday and carrier planes slammed another 80 tons of rockets and bombs among buildings, fuel and storage facilities.

BOMBERS OVER GERMANY

ROME, July 20.—(INS)—Allied heavy bombers returned to Germany today for the third consecutive day, bombing the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen and its airplane and tank factory. Other heavy bombers hit two Munich airfields. A few enemy planes challenged the bombers and several were shot down.

For a time the Pearl Harbor attack looked like a smart trick, destined to prove as successful as the similar surprise torpedo attack on the Russian fleet at Port Arthur in Japan's war with Russia. Within a few months after the Pearl Harbor stroke, Japan's carefully prepared amphibious task forces had overrun the Dutch and British East In-

Bitterness Rife As Managers Row For Second Place

Rebellious Southern Demo-

WALLACE IS LEADING FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, July 20.—(INS)—The Democratic convention entered its second session today with President Roosevelt's tactics assailed by rebellious southerners, bitterness spreading through the party ranks and Vice President Henry A. Wallace out in front in the race for second place on the fourth term ticket.

The president's convention managers forecast nomination of Senator Harry S. Truman, of Missouri, as Roosevelt's running-mate but Wallace actually led in pledged first ballot votes.

Wallace Leads

An International News Service poll showed Wallace had 513 first ballot votes with 587 necessary for nomination. Truman ran far behind with only 328; pledged first ballot votes. The remainder were scattered among fourteen rival possibilities or uncommitted, with Senator Albert W. Barkley, of Kentucky, in third place with 91 pledged votes.

Followers of Wallace and Truman were assailing their rival candidate in an intra-party row that threatened to carry over into November's election.

There remained a possibility that Wallace and Truman will beat each other into a defeat with Senator Barkley capturing the prize.

Roosevelt's convention managers already bloodied by the defeat of their first choice—war mobilization director James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina—hoped to swing Truman's nomination by publication of a Roosevelt letter, accepting the Missouri senator as his running-mate. Its publication may offset the earlier

Robot Bomb Activity Against Southern England

LONDON, July 20.—(INS)—More robot bombs crashed down on southern England last night and in daylight today following what were reported to be the heaviest 24-hour assaults of the Germans' indiscriminate bombing campaign to date.

The air ministry announced that a number of the pilotless missiles were destroyed during the night by British air and ground defenses before they could cause any harm, but reports of casualties and damage mounted steadily.

Flying bomb activity in southern England during the 24 hours ending last night were on a big scale than at any time since the assaults started a little over a month ago.

Dixie Delegates Threaten Revolt

Byrnes Withdrawal Taken
As Notice No Southerner
Can Be Nominated

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, July 20.—Spread of the "Dixie Revolt" into five Roosevelt-pledged southern delegations was threatened today as once-powerful southern Democratic leaders saw their power and influence being crushed in the national convention.

The five delegations enmeshed in a simmering protest and fear of convention action embraced Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, already pledged to give President Roosevelt virtually all of their convention votes for a fourth term.

Racial Plank

Fear of a racial equality plank in the national platform and President Roosevelt's request to War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, to retire from the vice-presidential race—interpreted as a decree that no southerner can be chosen for vice-president—fanned the flames of revolt.

Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D-Tenn., aroused by reports that a Negro equality platform plank would be proposed, threatened to call the 26-man delegation together to revoke endorsement of Mr. Roosevelt. He said a caucus may be held after the platform is announced.

The possibility of a southern uprising cheered John U. Barr, manager of the Byrd-for-president organization, who was striving to roll up an anti-fourth term protest vote of more than 125 votes for Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia.

"I have heard it said that orders were issued that no one south of the Mason and Dixon line be considered for the vice-presidency," said Barr.

ROME, July 20.—(INS)—American troops of the Allied Fifth Army in Italy smashed forward today beyond the captured west coast port of Livorno and advanced to within eight and one-half miles of Pisa and 16 miles of Florence.

Following up the capture of Livorno by the 34th American Division and attached units, the Fifth Army drew up along the Arno river along a 25-mile front in preparation for a match on the German-held Gothic line.

The Americans met only scattered German resistance south of the Arno river.

Truman Gaining With Keystoneers

Kane Of Allegheny Claims Half Of Pennsylvania Delegation For Truman

By Watson Fenimore
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, July 20.—Anti-Wallace forces in the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention claimed increasing support in the Keystone State tonight. Harry S. Truman of Missouri as the bitter battle over a vice presidential nominee neared a showdown in Chicago.

Some members of the delegation who have opposed renomination of Vice President Henry A. Wallace went so far as to declare that the entire Pennsylvania delegation would jump on the Truman bandwagon when the vice presidential balloting begins tonight.

Varied Claims
This was the most optimistic statement of Truman supporters. Other Truman leaders among the Pennsylvanians made considerably less claims.

Pennsylvania State Chairman David L. Lawrence asserted that the Missouri would poll "a substantial" number of the commonwealth's 72 votes when the time comes.

John J. Kane, of Allegheny County, made an estimate that Truman would receive the support of about half the state delegation.

Kane was the delegate who urged endorsement of Truman at Tuesday's hectic caucus when CIO President Philip Murray forced an expression of Pennsylvania sentiment on Wallace over the protests of the anti-Wallace faction.

Strong Fight
Another Pennsylvania delegate who declined to permit use of his name, declared Truman support was spreading among Allegheny County delegates despite the vigorous Wallace leadership of U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey.

But the Wallace men were putting up a strong fight. Pennsylvania delegates who voted no or failed to vote at all when the poll for Wallace was taken Tuesday were deluged with telegraphic protests from CIO units back home and these encouraged the Wallace supporters.

Kane it was learned, received at least 130 CIO votes demanding backing for the vice president. Other delegates received from two to a dozen or more each. The fact that Kane is a CIO member apparently accounted for the high number of messages received by him.

Guffey conferred with Wallace after the latter's dramatic arrival in Chicago yesterday. Later, the senator declared that "to my mind the situation hasn't changed a bit. In my judgment the Wallace strength in the delegation has increased."

Guffey estimated Tuesday night that the Wallace vote from the commonwealth would be around 58 or 60.

CHAIRMAN RAPES GOP SPEECH TO CONVENTION

or irresponsible politicians," attacked the G.O.P.'s "youth versus age" argument, its 1944 platform and what he termed its old era of "privilege and pillage."

He accused the Republicans of "indecent slander" against the President for referring to Democratic "decadence." President Roosevelt, he said, is in his "full vigor and in the flower of his energy."

"He has more rugged vitality in him today than any two men in the opposition has to offer," Jackson told the 1,176 delegates who last night heard an earlier keynote from Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt is the most valuable public servant in the world today."

Faith In Man
And in apparent reference to the President's ability to serve another four years, the 47-year-old chairman added:

"We meet in the faith that this man, when elected, can and will continue to carry forward without interruption the tremendous burden of the war. He will help write the terms of an abiding peace."

"We meet with the conviction that the peace will be established by men who know the forces involved—not by uninformed, inexperienced or irresponsible politicians."

Jackson told his fellow Democrats that "what the presidency demands now is not so much a bright young man, as a man of wisdom and experience."

This year is no time, said Jackson, to "muddle through" with a "common-place or less than common-place" president. He said:

"If it were true that the Republican nominee is as able, as experienced, as definite in his intellectual principles of government, and as clear in his war and peace concepts as the present occupant of the White House, still exchange now might well prove to be the tragedy of this generation."

In terms of statesmanship, a comparison of the apparent dimensions of the G.O.P. aspirant with a man of the stature of the President, rules out of the field of rational consideration this proposed substitution for the party of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

HARRISBURG, July 20.—(INS)—Seventeen motor carriers were summoned today by the Public Utility Commission to appear at the state capitol for hearings July 24 for allegedly violating the agency's insurance regulations. They included: Lawrence county; Norman Manning Hunt, New Castle, R. D. 4.

Roosevelt letter, in which the president said "I personally would vote for Wallace's renomination if I were a delegate to the convention."

Favors Truman
In his second letter, the President said he would be "pleased to have Truman run with me on the party ticket and believe he would add real strength to the ticket."

But the president went a little further and added that as a second choice he would accept Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, of Connecticut, as his running-mate.

Existence of the letter was challenged by Wallace's supporters. Senator Joseph P. Guffey, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, attacked Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan for spreading rumors about the letter. Both demanded that Hannegan make it public and both assailed the president's preference for Truman.

Guffey warned his fellow Democrats that if Truman were nominated the Republicans could use a slogan of "Hannegan, Hague and Flynn" to offset the "Martin, Barton and Fish" New Deal slogan of 1940. Though he attacked Hannegan, Guffey's barbs were really aimed at the president.

The Wallace forces blasted at Truman's connection with the old reedgering machine in Kansas City.

Roosevelt's managers, meanwhile, continued a desultory attack on Wallace's supporters among the CIO and communist ranks. There was little warmth in this attack as the Roosevelt managers apparently had not yet recovered from the Wallace "blitz" of Byrnes.

Better Management
It was no secret about the convention that Wallace was getting better management than Truman.

The managers were Guffey, Pepper, Attorney General Francis Biddle, Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes and Assistant Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman of Colorado. Sidney Hillman of the CIO's political action committee and Philip Murray, CIO boss.

Truman's managers were the president's own—Hannegan, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Edward T. Flynn of New York and Postmaster General Frank Walker.

This tumult attracted numerous favorite sons who believe they may get struck by convention lightning.

The names of Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama, Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Governor Sam Jones of Louisiana, Governor Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland, Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, Governor J. M. Broughton of North Carolina, Governor Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Governor Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, Louis J. Glavin of West Virginia, Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah and probably Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas will be placed in nomination.

Meanwhile Wallace leaders begged Barkley to stay in the race. Truman leaders begged him to get out in the Missouri's favor.

Withdraws Speech
Postmaster General Walker and Flynn personally appealed to Barkley to quit. This incensed Barkley so much that he sent out orders to withdraw all copies of his speech placing Mr. Roosevelt in nomination for a fourth term.

Barkley thereafter held a conference with his own managers, running well after 1:30 o'clock this morning and finally decided to go through with his original plan—to nominate Roosevelt and to stay in the vice presidential race. Former Postmaster General James A. Farley, seen emerging from his conference, may have had something to do with Barkley's decision.

One thing that enraged many vice presidential camps was the manner in which Mr. Roosevelt handled his endorsements. The president first issued a list, naming five men acceptable to him—Wallace, Barkley, Byrnes, Douglas and Judge Sherman Minton of Indiana. Then he issued a letter, endorsing Wallace rather faintly. Third, he told his closest advisers that he preferred Byrnes to all the rest. Finally, he wrote another letter, preferring Truman first and Douglas second.

One thing is certain—the sores of this convention will not be healed by November.

meeting as previously arranged. Shortly after the attempt, Marshal Goering came to Herr Hitler."

Gen. Jodl was said to have suffered "slighter injuries," and DNB added:

"Gens. Korten, Buhl, Bodenschatz, Heusinger and Scherff and Admirals Voss and Von Uttkammer also were slightly wounded."

The last presumed attempt on Hitler's life occurred on November 8, 1941, when a time-bomb exploded in the Burgerbraukeller at Munich some minutes after the fuhrer had completed a speech to old-line party members.

German propagandists blamed secret agents for this attempt, but there have been many indications the bomb actually was planted by the Nazis as a buildup for Hitler himself.

bank). There are plenty of men and women in the county who can aid the war effort and themselves by getting a job in one of the industries needing help.

The War Manpower Commission wants to know if Lawrence county will solve its own problem by July 27. The National Housing Agency wants to know if Lawrence county will solve its own problem. If we cannot do it ourselves we may expect to see these agencies find a solution which might mean a surplus labor later on and a surplus of housing facilities.

Might Mean Trailers
A surplus of housing facilities might include a flock of trailers parked somewhere in the county. Trailers bring an endless chain of difficulties. Do you want them here?

Will you rent that extra room that empty apartment, yes, even to families with children? After all it is a war time emergency.

On July 25 and 26 a questionnaire will be published in The News asking you questions concerning unemployment in your family, the possibility of renting space to new workers and other questions. These questionnaires should be filled out by you and returned immediately to the Greater New Castle Association not later than the night of July 26.

This is not just another survey, nor somebody just asking questions. It is a serious attempt to adjust a critical problem that has arisen in this county and which if we do not solve ourselves will be solved by government agencies.

HANDWRITING ON WALL FOR JAP EMPIRE

dies as far as the borders of the Indian empire, while other spearheads menaced Australia.

Didn't Know Score
What the Japanese didn't reckon with was the tremendous productive power of American war industries and ship yards. Within a year Uncle Sam had created a new fleet bigger and better than the one damaged in Hawaiian waters, and repaired most of the damaged ships besides.

MacArthur had rendered Australia safe and the U. S. navy had put a period at Midway to Jap efforts to advance towards our Pacific sea lanes of communications.

The smart trick with which the war started had proved not smart enough for too smart. After that it was only a question of time until mounting American might should bring the whole structure of Japanese ambition tumbling down to decisive defeat.

Saipan Caused It
Immediate cause of the fall of Tojo was undoubtedly the capture of Saipan, recently completed by American forces. Saipan, with its neighboring Marianas islands, is within approximately 1,500 miles of Nippon's main islands, easy range for B-29 bombers.

The Japanese with their newspaper cities have always dreaded bombing. Now they know that a major strategic assault from the air is just around the corner.

The fall of Tojo represents the disappearance of the second of the heads of the original Axis big three nations whose aggressions began world war two. Mussolini was the first. Only Hitler remains and it is evident that his days are numbered.

Common mistake made by all was under-estimation of American industry.

"I plan to act as temporary chairman until the end of the campaign to raise funds after which a permanent chairman and officers will be elected," he said today, adding:

"This is not merely a temporary arrangement but we hope to make it a permanent achievement as recreation requires money from time to time as a dollar spent for recreation is a dollar for yourself."

Whither Germany?

On all the fronts Germany is reeling from the blows being dealt her. On all fronts since D-Day, Germany has lost an average of two generals every three days, through death, surrender or "accident." It is a startling decline of a great military power.

Germany is beaten—but the war is not over. Not by a long shot. Normally, in a military situation of this kind, it could be expected that the military population would rise in revolt and get rid of the leaders who had led them to disaster and then sue for peace. But if there is a spark of resistance to Hitler left in the German people, it has been kept a great secret.

Perhaps there has been no more successful tyranny inflicted upon a nation in a hundred years. It has been complete and thoroughly overpowering. There seems not the remotest chance of an uprising on the part of the people. The Germans are not giving up. They are still trying to pull some rabbit out of the hat—if not military, then diplomatic.

Historians can well look upon the scene with detached, but intense, interest. Are the Germans going to get away with it again? Nobody knows. They are trying to work again what they have worked successfully before. It is conceivable that they might succeed.

What is going on now in Germany seems obvious. It is a struggle for power. The German generals would like to surrender to the Russians. The militarist clique thinks in terms of military might only. The German generals still think they could make some sort of deal with the Russians. The Junker industrialists would prefer to surrender to the Anglo-American forces.

And there it is. The army trying to save its own skin—for Germany's future. The Junker landlords trying to save theirs—for Germany's future.

Germany's future, and the world's future, depend upon a peace that will do away with the German militarists and the Junkers for good. The world cannot exist with Hitler or any of the little Hitlers in it. It is a lesson that the world should have learned by now. It has been a costly lesson—the cost reckoned in blood.

Shrapnel

One of the oldest terms applied to munitions of war is shrapnel. For two hundred years a shell which hurled missiles in all directions when it exploded had been used. A German invented one in 1573. Others improved it, but it was not until 1803 that Colonel Shrapnel, an officer in the British army, perfected the shell, in spite of a lack of interest by the British crown. He spent thousands of pounds of his own funds, for which he was never repaid.

Many difficulties were encountered in Shrapnel's early experiments. Gunpowder was of poor quality in those days. Fuses often were ineffective, resulting in many duds. But the ambitious British soldier met and overcame every obstacle and lived to see his weapon in general use.

After working on the shell for 28 years, Shrapnel reminded the British board of ordnance it was indebted to him in a considerable sum. The board granted him a pension of 1,200 pounds a year. This failed to satisfy him, and gaining the ear of King William VI he agreed to settle for a title. This was promised, but his majesty died before putting it through.

Queen Victoria, who followed to the throne, never heard of Shrapnel. With nothing to show for his labors except that his invention bore his name, Colonel Shrapnel died at the advanced age of 81, unhonored and unsung.

Where Gasoline Goes

How much gasoline Hitler has undiscovered. Probably his available supply is less than 10 per cent of American output. And America is not having an easy time making supplies meet essential demands.

So hard pressed are high test gasoline makers supplying aviation fuel that petroleum has been diverted from synthetic rubber making to 100-octane gasoline production. Before Pearl Harbor the nation's highest gasoline output was 24,000 barrels a day. For months it has been 400,000 barrels a day, and now it is approximately 500,000 barrels a day. Even greater output is needed.

Civilians, as a result, will get a poorer grade of motor fuel. A B-29 Superfortress consumes as much gasoline in an hour as an "A" ration holder gets in five and one-half years. With more Superfortresses taking to the air constantly, it is easy to see where the gasoline is going.

But if America has difficulty fueling its military effort, it is difficult to understand how Germany, deprived of most of her sources of petroleum, and with her synthetic plants under almost constant bombardment, can produce more than a trickle of gasoline.

Fate Of A Boy Wonder

William James Sidis may be only a name to the rising generation, but there are many who will remember the stir caused by the youthful prodigy who was graduated from Harvard, 30 years ago, at the age of 16.

Now, described as "46, unemployed clerk," he has died in a Boston hospital whether he was taken after being found unconscious in his room in a lodging house. For 20 years he had lived as a recluse, emerging only to go to his daily humble work.

The bright hopes inspired by his scholastic achievements had changed long ago to a feeling of frustration. The genius became a moping misanthrope. What had happened? Sidis was not the only infant phenomenon who failed to fulfill early promise of a brilliant career. Youthful precocity is no guarantee of world success.

Yale has a 12-year-old sophomore, and the Quiz Kids are still carrying on. Let's wish them well, while trusting they will not rely too much on their ability to perform intellectual acrobatics at a tender age. It is a gift of the gods which doesn't always endure.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FAITH IN AMERICA

I have a great faith in our future. I know there are those who look to government as the cornucopia from which all blessings flow. But that frame of mind is a foreign importation. When our young manhood returns from the four corners of the earth they will bring with them—and to us—a better appreciation of American standards of self-dependence in a framework of self-government.

Why, we've had some professors tell us we'd be better off with trillions instead of puny millions of debt. But as a friend of mine says, those fellows have upside-down brains. I'll venture they have a

Washington Calling

By MARQUIS CHILDS

CHICAGO—I wish I knew what kind of indestructible stuff these Democratic bosses are made of. They turn up every four years looking as untouched by time as though they had discovered the fountain of youth.

Especially impressive is New Jersey's Mayor Frank Hague. He was hardly a freshman, 12 years ago, when he made one of the mistakes of his career here in Chicago and withheld his delegate strength from New York's Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Repair Error

Time and Mayor Hague's zeal have repaired that error. He sails through the crowded lobby of the Stevens hotel with a positively boyish enthusiasm, greeting old friends and new acquaintances with a joviality that has in it something regal. He looks, I swear, younger than he did when I last saw him seven years ago in Florida.

His companion is Chicago's Mayor Kelly, who leans more on dignity than Hague. Time has been kind to Kelly, too, during the Roosevelt years.

In our big sprawling democracy, bosses have been a common phenomenon in both parties. They may be at our stage of political development, an inevitable necessity despite the preachments of all right thinking citizens. Yet as always seemed to me that Roosevelt relied on them far more than was necessary.

The plain fact all along is that they needed him much more than he needed them. Nevertheless he took the easiest course and relied on the big fellows to deliver the vote.

That was especially true in the campaign of 1936, when Roosevelt's popularity was at its height. I remember following him around all that campaign and hearing him make what was, up until the last ten days, an old fashioned full dinner pail campaign.

Tom On Loose

When he went into Jersey City, Mayor Hague turned the town loose. Salvoes of bombs and rockets split the air. Thousands upon thousands of school children stood along the streets waving flags. The mayor had declared a public holiday and almost every business house was closed.

Never once did Roosevelt mention the supreme court issue. Two months after his great victory, the court enlargement scheme came as a surprise to everyone. The president had not trusted the people enough.

Of course not all the bosses are here this time. Eight years ago Tom Pendergast of Missouri was the grand panjandrum of them all. Today he is the forgotten man, back in Kansas City ailing and old. His power was shattered, thanks, in the first instance, to a fearless newspaper, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and, second, to a U. S. federal prosecutor, Maurice H. H. Billigan of Kansas City.

It's a small miracle that the man he named to the senate—and he did just that—should today stand clear of the shadow of the boss. Senator Harry S. Truman, who appears at this moment to be the likely compromise candidate for vice-president, has made his own way and it hasn't been easy.

He stands on his own not because he repudiated Boss Pendergast in the "boss" time of trouble. Truman is incapable of that kind of disloyalty. He went ahead with earnestness and integrity to do a good job in the senate.

Saved Billions

I don't imagine anyone will ever be able to estimate the number of billions of dollars the Truman committee has saved. More important, it has saved lives. Out of his own battle experience in 1918 Truman had learned the terrible cost of war.

If he is finally the vice-presidential nominee, you will hear a great deal during the campaign about the "boss" issue. Some of it will hit the target. But so far as Truman's career in later years is concerned, it will be irrelevant.

No matter how fierce the attack, Truman will be unperturbed. Everything that could be said against him has been said and many times over. Missouri toppled the boss from his throne.

The smash brought down a lot of wreckage. Harry Truman came out of that wreck with a career no man need be ashamed of.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:32. Sun rises tomorrow 5:41.

A lot of paper could be saved if cigar and plug tobacco were not wrapped in it. It's a nuisance.

The war is costing us $12,750,000 an hour. Do all you can to help win the war.

About the only thing some birds are enthusiastic about is politics. For personal reasons of course.

Grandpa says an old timer is one to whom the name "Leghorn" means either a hat or a chicken.

The passing of the strawberry shortcake days is only made bearable by the approach of the corn-on-the-cob season.

PERT AND PERTINENT

"First auto trip across the USA took 61 days" from an article in a motorists' journal.

—nowadays, it would take longer than that doing it on an A card.

"Man's greatest asset is an IDEA..." University President.

—Yes, Prexy, if it is carried out.

"One more thing that is wrong with this country is that there are too many grade crossings..." in public schools.

Every man is a specialist in some special activity...

—yes, some are specialists in finding excuses.

A fellow who branches out too quickly often finds himself out on a limb.

A new kind of frozen money has made its appearance. A midwestern housewife found a quarter inside a hailstone.

Incidentally, the motorist with ailing tires fears, not inflation but deflation.

A lot of history is getting into the books before school opens in September.

One of the burning questions of the day is what type of sun lotion to use.

One good feature of all those auto stamps and stickers is that there is just that much less windshield space to wash.

It is disagreeable to have cooties, of course, but suppose they chirped?

Didn't ever know a really big executive who was a cheer leader at college—neither did we.

The politico had held the rostrum for the better part of an hour and had only uttered the usual hackneyed platitudes. "And now, ladies and gentlemen, I wish to say to your memory..."

"Good Heavens!" exclaimed a man in the audience, "has it come to that?"

A cording to Betty Coed there are two ways to turn a man's head... rattle money or rattle a skirt.

And then there was the absent-minded bachelor professor who was put out of his room by his landlady because she heard him drop his shoes twice.

Superfluous words will never make a good orator.

Our prosaic times have adventures. When men wore silk breeches and lace cuffs, their pretty wives went often to the hairdresser's to be cleared of animals.

A politician is a man who is careful never to hurt your feelings unless you are rich.

The end is near. The Germans are running out of everything, including Russia and Italy.

Still if Democrats ridicule Dewey's age, won't it indicate a belief that Roosevelt at that age was incompetent?

The real party platforms are "Let's all work together to do this job" and "Relax and don't worry. Papa will do it."

People would keep politics out of the campaign, too. They resort to a silly and untrue accusation even when one on their own side makes it.

Nothing is new but names. In the pure and simple nineties there were "sophisticated" women, and people had another name for them.

Note on the great heart of America: There are 1500 counties without a doctor; the government plans to leave many in Europe after the war.

If Germans behind six feet of concrete "fight fiercely" as reported, the unprotected GI who digs them out must get pretty cross, too.

Fighters aren't the only heroes. Doctors who had the courage to volunteer are working undere with a heroism never excelled.

Depending on the government, it's a man's sense of responsibility. If he isn't forced to serve, he can be a slacker without feeling ashamed.

The Germans don't need forts. Every city and every village with its old stone houses must be churned to dust by artillery or taken by hand-to-hand fighting.

Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT
(Copyright, 1944)
By The Baltimore Sun

Only One Issue

CHICAGO, July 20. AT THIS, the 29th National Convention of the Democratic Party (the first was held in Baltimore in 1832), one large, pregnant fact protrudes. More than ever before in our political history the issues of this campaign are bound up in a single man. His name, of course, is Franklin D. Roosevelt.

IN MAKES NO difference whom this gathering nominates for Vice-President, nor what kind of platform it adopts, Mr. Roosevelt is the issue. Mr. Roosevelt is all the issues. The people in November will vote either for or against Mr. Roosevelt because they either like and trust him or they dislike and distrust him. Moreover, a relatively insignificant number of voters on either side will be changed by reason or by events between now and November.

THIS IS NOT to say that all the party labor for the next four months will be wasted. It is possible to do very effective work in registration in getting the voters to the polls in building up enthusiasm in guarding against mistakes in order to avoid expenditure of money in doing the fool mistakes, and in many other ways. It is to say that most of the oratory will be wasted, most of the literature will be worthless and extremely few souls will be saved by the political evangelists in either party—fewer, than usual. This is not a campaign of reason—it is almost entirely a campaign of prejudice.

IT HAS been a general assumption that if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected it will be because of the war but that isn't so. The war is the excuse for his candidacy and the war, along with himself as "Commander in Chief," will envelop this convention from start to finish. It will saturate the platform and highly flavor every speech. Nothing will be left undone to rattle the wholly unsound but plausible argument that the winning of the war depends altogether upon the leadership of the "Commander in Chief." But more the Commander in Chief is re-nominated it will be seen that the reliance for his reelection is not upon the war argument at all but upon certain very concrete and easily recognized political assets that have nothing to do with the war.

ONE HAS ONLY to circulate around these Chicago hotels to understand what they are. It isn't only that the presence of the CIO lobbyists and the professional lobbyists at once recall Attorney General Biddle's famous declaration that "the New Deal is a political party tied in with the labor movement under an able political leader," but there are conspicuously in evidence others whom the idealistic Mr. Biddle did not mention but who nonetheless represent the indispensable political base upon which the Roosevelt chances rest. Among them are the State machine, the Negroes who though far less solid than in 1940 are still favorably inclined, plus the President's personal emotional and unreasoning following, and the formidable nature of his support for a fourth term must be conceded.

IT IS NOT surprising that confidence is pretty high here, nor that the betting odds favor the fourth term. But, among some of the wiser of the practical politicians there is an undercurrent of apprehension. These recognize the danger of holding on to high office too long. They know that resentments rapidly accumulate each year and that a point can be reached at which the people become just "fed up."

They concede the possibility that that point may be reached concerning the Roosevelts in November. A good many by-elections and the general Republican trend of the last two years give some ground for thinking so. It is the sort of thing that can't be told until the votes are counted, but it is the real Roosevelt danger. It easily could wipe out all his assets.

DeGaulle Is No Compromiser Or Diplomat
Has Long Nose But It Is Not To Be Tweaked
General Has No Doubt About France's Future

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 20.—It was evident that the pink roses and delphinium on the side table of the residence at 2929 Massachusetts avenue, where Gen. Charles De Gaulle held his first American press conference, had been to a party the night before. A dinner party surely. The flowers were arranged with that mathematical firmness that florists exhibit on centerpieces.

While the general was having his Washington inquisition done into French by an interpreter, my mind suddenly leaped back to the pink roses and delphinium I had seen several years ago in the same room of the mansion at 2929. That centerpiece had also adorned a dinner party that was where I met it.

Another Dinner Recalled

It was a dinner party given by the then German Ambassador, Hans Dieckhoff, not long before his recall to Berlin. Dr. Dieckhoff then had been doing his diplomatic best to "sustain friendly relations between Germany and the United States."

That is what the agreeable and shrewd German said he was doing. He said it in manner as if he were conversing to one of those famous cross-sections of Washington who were guests at his dinner.

He said it a few days later in this very room at his last press conference as German ambassador. Before Dieckhoff's occupation of 2929 the house had been used by the then Hungarian ambassador, Szenesi.

And now the morning's walk was listening in on a French military man's belief in the not distant liberation of France.

Quite a person this French military man De Gaulle. Not a compromiser. Not a diplomat. He made it quite clear before and after his election that he meant to take the interests of France no matter what happened to any other country or its peoples.

Rather a blunt fellow. But spirited. And cheerful.

His forthrightness made a good impression. Not too handsome, not too beaming, he looked a true Gaul—so plain intended—with his long nose and sloping shoulders.

A long nose certainly. But not a nose to be tweaked carelessly. Not were the sloping shoulders to be pushed out of the way without a good deal of force in the push. A self-confident fighting man. That is how De Gaulle appeared to me.

The last time I had been in this room of 2929 there had been views of the Rhineland and of the cathedrals of Cologne and Dresden on the walls. Now old French prints spotted the pale gray background.

Visits Are Contrasted

The last time here I had heard a foreign dignitary explain the position of his country and his own position to the American public by way of the press. The air reverberated slightly to Teutonic gutturals. Today there was a pleasant hiss of French silabants.

At the beginning of the conference, the general responded quietly to the questions asked him. Gradually as he sensed the friendliness of the group about him and recognized his own opportunity, he grew more, shall I say, typically French.

Each time he said "France," a true Frenchman speaks it. "Frohnz," there was a special emphasis in his voice. Sometimes he pounced the table for "La Patrie."

Again and again the same phrases—"Lee-beer-lah, and Frohnz," "Nay-coo-ash-ee-un avee Laz-Ata-You-Ne," "Le Grand-ure of Fro

Australian Girls
'Go' For American
Soldiers, Is Word

Like Snappy Line And Dashing
Ways Of Yanks In Their Country

By GEORGE LAIT
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEAD-QUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, July 20.—The dash, frankness, generosity and informality—as well as the snappy "line" the Yanks employ—are the outstanding characteristics which make Australian girls "go" for American soldiers.

The Australian magazine "Family & Teleradio" in disclosing this series of vital statistics, comments: "If Australian men would adopt the same tactics as their American cousins, maybe they would obtain the same results."

"Big-Hearted and Generous"

The magazine based its conclusions on an interview with a Miss Marion..... (last name apparently a military secret), described as "typical of the hundreds who have come into contact with the Americans." She is 19, blonde and "reasonably good looking," and has met many Yanks at canteens, Red Cross clubs and other similar establishments.

Marion admitted that Australian men were attractive, but added that "in many respects the Americans were so much nicer in every way." "They are different," Marion said. "They have a dashing manner of approach. There is no formality about them, and while they are apt to shock a girl until she gets used to them, they are really big-hearted and generous."

Quick to Get Acquainted

The Doughboys always call a girl by her first name at their first meeting, whereas "most Australians would take a girl out for a week before they would dream of doing such a thing."

"And an American at the first meeting is quite likely to call you 'Toots' or 'Gorgeous' and the most amazing names imaginable," Marion disclosed.

Marion described the attractive "line" of one unnamed American stalwart:

"An American met at a dance startled me when he grabbed my hand and said, 'Let's get hot, Toots,' and then pulled me onto the dance floor. He was a dapper fellow, but he talked all the time, and when he was not talking he was crooning in my ear—the utmost most nonsense."

"His Inspiration," He Said

"He told me I was his 'honeypot,' and that he wanted to be the 'only bee to buzz around.' I tried to cut him dead, but he laughed and told me I was 'the cutest little 'fow-head' he had ever met and that I was his inspiration for life."

"When he took me home he was still telling me things a girl loves to hear from a man, and then gave me a shock when he said: 'Pucker up your lips, glamor honey pot, your Elmer is coming in on the beam.' Then he grabbed me and kissed me."

Marion said she saw this "Elmer" the following night at another dance.

"A Date With a Swell Guy"

"He grinned and ignored me... he had another girl, and from his manner I knew he was telling her just what he told me. I learned later that Americans have a line of flattery which they use on every girl they meet, and that they do not intend the girl to take it seriously."

Another lovable attribute of the Doughboys, said Marion, "is their love for their mothers."

"Every one I met showed me a picture of his mother within five minutes of our meeting," she said. "Is she having fun with the Yanks? Marion was asked."

"I have thoroughly enjoyed myself," she replied, "and still am. I have never had so much fun in my life."

Then, said the magazine, Marion left "to keep a date with a swell guy."

America Attracted
European Painter

VERONA, Pa.—Milan Petrovits, nationally known Pittsburgh district artist who died at his home recently, reversed the usual procedure among American painters by coming from Europe to the United States to develop his talents.

Petrovits, who won many prizes in Pittsburgh competitions and exhibited in New York, Washington, and other cities, was born in Vienna, where many painters learned their skill. But Petrovits came to the United States at the age of 13 and studied here.

Beware Bosses Ickes Warns FDR

Was For Douglas, Now
Pushing Wallace's Re-nomination

CHICAGO, July 20.—(INS)—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today told President Roosevelt by telegram that he would make "the greatest political error" of his presidential career if he permits party "bosses" to name the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

The blast of Ickes, who earlier was reported to be supporting Justice William O. Douglas for the second place nomination, was directed at the backing given by big-city leaders to Sen. Harry S. Truman of Missouri for vice president. Ickes, throwing himself wholeheartedly into the fight for renomination of Vice President Wallace, was reported to have asked Mr. Roosevelt to revise his "I were a delegate" letter and advise party leaders to support the vice president.

Ickes was understood to have said to the President by wire that he first thought that Wallace's renomination would weaken the presidential ticket, but that he has found tremendous enthusiasm among delegates for the Iowan and has changed his mind.

He was said to have declared in plain language that Mr. Roosevelt would make the greatest political error in his 12 years as president if he allowed Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, Edward Flynn of New York, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City to side-track Wallace and install Truman in his place.

PLATFORM READY, OPPOSITION LOOMS

drafting committee were sworn to secrecy on the platform designed to tide President Roosevelt through a fourth term campaign. Pepper, a committee member, and frequently a White House spokesman, labeled the racial plank as "not wholly satisfactory."

Not Wholly Satisfactory
"Any document on which more than one person collaborated is not wholly satisfactory to everybody," the southerner asserted when questioned on the stand the committee took on the racial issue.

Pepper's criticism of the plank followed a threat by the Tennessee delegation that it would withdraw endorsement of President Roosevelt pending a look at the racial equality plank. Rumblings of a revolt over the Negro question among other southern delegations also were spreading through the convention.

Following approval of the platform—hailed as the shortest on record—by the resolutions committee it will be submitted to the convention this afternoon for final adoption and possibly a floor fight over the controversial racial question.

Asked if the platform fell within 600 words, Pepper replied it would be longer than that "but it will be the shortest one we've ever had."

All Night Long

Committee members battled thru the night and into the morning over the tough decision of yielding to CIO and Negro pressure for more than a general statement of equal opportunity to all regardless of race, color or creed, winding up their long session after 3 a. m.

It was believed a halfway compromise was reached on the race-relations problem which would bind the Democrats to a continuation of its present program to preserve the rights of all minority groups.

The foreign policy plank was expected to hew to the line of the Connally postwar resolution, pledging the United States to join with other nations in preserving peace by force when war threats by aggressors can be prevented by no other methods.

Possible domestic declarations in the platform, informed sources said, were to include tax incentives to encourage new enterprises, removal of interstate and international trade barriers, aid to small business, continuance of wartime federal controls as quickly as possible after the war and maintenance of labor's right to collective bargaining.

DENVER.—(INS)—Thomas M. Chambers, 19, was jailed for the third time on charges of impersonating an army officer. When first arrested, he was told to join the army. He did, but although he was rated "very good" in the monthly crop report issued by the Federal in an officer's outfit. Thrown out of the army, he persisted in the state department of agriculture until military police caught him up with him.

POTATO CROP
HARRISBURG.—Unless dry weather continues for any length of time, Pennsylvania farmers and potato consumers can look forward to one of the best harvests of early potatoes in years. Condition of the entire potato crops as of July 1 was rated "very good" in the monthly crop report issued by the Federal in the state department of agriculture. Early potatoes are especially thrifty.

Activities At Camp Rentz In Full Swing Now

Y.M.C.A. Camp Activities Halted
Only Temporarily By Rain
Wednesday Morning

Thursday found the boys at Camp Rentz moving along in full swing, with baseball and volleyball the chief activities of the capacity-filled camp. Jim McVaine pitched his team to two victories on the ball field, while the Super-Elephants led by Dick Snow were victorious in volleyball.

During the evening the boys took part in a spirited game of "capture the flag," with the game ending in a draw as neither team was successful in getting the other team's flag. Later the boys entered the campfire circle and soon the air was filled with the youthful voices singing the favorite camp ditties. Later the boys were addressed by DeLois Walker who told them of an experience which he had with a youth of China who was competing in a marathon race. Mr. Walker left the thought that every boy should give his best in the game of life and that he would then be successful in the completion of that game. After taps were played the boys soon settled down to sleep.

Rain during the early morning caused the postponing of the regular games on Wednesday but the boys were busy in the recreation hall and also in the handcraft building. Many of the boys are now finishing their projects which show much good work.

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—(INS)—Blending of coal at the pit will soon make possible the full operation of the world's largest coal mine, the Robena operation in Greene county, it was disclosed today by officials of the United States Steel Corporation.

At present, about 4,000 tons of coal per day are being taken in open-pit "headings," but a maximum operation of 20,000 tons daily is visualized, although it may be almost two years before the latter figure is reached.

The sulphur content of the coal is so high that mining it has been delayed as long as possible. Company engineers plan to blend the

British Second Meets Resistance

Germans Stiffen Near Caen — Britons Gain Additional Ground

By KINGSBURY SMITH
U. S. Staff Correspondent
Allied Expeditionary Force, July 20
—(INS)—Armored forces of the British Second Army, battering furiously against stiffened German resistance east of Caen along the highroad to Paris, captured additional towns on the Caen plain today.

The bitterest engagements appeared to be taking place in the vicinity of the strategic road hub of Troarn, seven miles east of Caen, and headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said that the British had reached the railway half a mile from Troarn.

Early and fragmentary reports from the front, the dispatch said, reported Yank patrols had pushed across the Ay to a depth of 300 yards at several points. The crossings were said to have been made presumably in the vicinity of embattled Lessay which still is in German hands.

South and east of these villages British armored forces battled German tanks and hammered at anti-tank defenses based on other villages and on farms.

Headquarters reported a systematic advance along the front southwest of Caen between Grainville and the St. Germain sector. The British gained additional ground north of Vende, capturing the village of L'Andelle, one mile west of Noyers which still is in German hands.

Germans Withdraw
The Germans continued to withdraw from the area south of the Caumont-Tilly-Sauvies road. Still farther west below the base of the Cherbourg peninsula on the American sector, gains of a few hundred yards were scored across a 2,000-yard front and the Yanks took the villages of La Varge and Thiebot, L'Ange.

The Germans in the St. Lo area, although they have launched no counter-attack against the Americans who seized that communications center, continued harassing artillery from high ground overlooking the town. American forces inside St. Lo continued to mop up isolated Nazis.

German resistance appeared to have stiffened all across the roaring battlefield east and south of Caen, especially in the vicinity of Troarn where at one time allied infantry were within 600 yards of the center of the town.

Heavy machine-gun and mortar fire came from German positions at Troarn.

American Patrols Cross River Ay

LONDON, July 20.—(INS)—American patrols at the western end of the Normandy battlefield crossed the river Ay at several points during the night, a Reuter dispatch from United States First Army headquarters reported.

Last night, the dispatch said, the German Air Force made its first sizeable appearance on this sector and raided United States lines.

The Germans sent more than 50 planes into the raid against the Americans.

Early and fragmentary reports from the front, the dispatch said, reported Yank patrols had pushed across the Ay to a depth of 300 yards at several points. The crossings were said to have been made presumably in the vicinity of embattled Lessay which still is in German hands.

Claims Roosevelt Bows To Hillman

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—(INS)—Allegheny county Republican chairman James P. Malone today charged that President Roosevelt acted on the "orders" of Sidney Hillman, the CIO political action committee, and tossed war mobilization James P. Byrnes out of the vice presidential race.

"This country finds itself in a sad plight," Malone declared, "when one reads in the newspapers that Sidney Hillman can order the President of the United States to demand that Byrnes step down and withdraw as a candidate for nomination for vice president."

President Roosevelt personally did not want to desert his old friend and send him down the hill, he was ordered to do so by Hillman—and he obeyed the order."

PAYS FINE OF $10

Samuel Braunstein was fined $10 today by Acting Mayor Albert H. Hays for allegedly using washers in a parking meter. He was taken into custody by Meter Operator Arthur Harris who recovered the washers and reportedly checked the car Braunstein drove. The latter denied the charge but paid the fine.

TOJO CONFESSES CABINET UNABLE TO MEET CRISIS

keeper of the privy seal, to attempt to form a new and stronger government after Tojo and his ministers resigned en masse.

The two militarists who will share the premiership jointly were received by Emperor Hirohito at the imperial palace and there presented with the order to form a new cabinet.

Admiral Yonai previously served from August 1939 to January of 1940.

Situation Critical
In informing the Japanese people themselves of Tojo's resignation in a broadcast made at 2 A. M. EWT today, the Tokyo radio admitted that the "counter-offensive of the United States . . . was further increased in intensity and the war situation has become more and more critical."

The Tokyo transmitter declared that the decision to change the government was reached as a result of Japan's determination to "march straight forward with the fullest speed for the destruction of the enemies, the United States and Britain."

Announcement of the ousting of Tojo and his ministers came from the Japanese board of information and was made public both through voice broadcasts and wireless dispatches by the Jap Domei agency. The federal communications commission recorded the Jap accounts.

With the Tojo regime stepping out to make way "for a more powerful cabinet in order to renew the public spirit and to strive toward an all-out effort for the prosecution of the war," press dispatches from Stockholm suggested that all may not be well in Berlin.

All telephone, telegraph lines and other means of communication between the Nazi capital and the outside world were cut early last night, a Stockholm dispatch to the London Daily Mail said.

A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm said that telephone channels to Berlin were reopened this morning after a shutdown of 15 hours which remained unexplained.

Speculation Rife

Although it was explained that the severance of communications out of Berlin may be due to Allied aerial assault, the thoroughness of the communications ban caused speculation in the Swedish capital over whether something more serious may not have transpired.

Reuter's reported from Stockholm meanwhile that Heinrich Himmler, stern chief of the Gestapo who has attained a position of real power behind Hitler, is being handed more authority over the German army.

In Tokyo, Kido engaged in conferences with former premiers of Japan as the first step in establishing a new regime. As yet there was no indication that a new government had been formed.

The fall of Tojo climaxed a series of warnings over the past few days to the Japanese people of the grave situation facing Japan. Only on Tuesday it was revealed that Tojo had been dismissed as army chief of staff. At the same time Tokyo made its first acknowledgement that the bastion of Saipan in the Marianas had fallen to the Americans.

The official text of the board of information announcement contained surprising admissions of the serious plight of Japan.

The Tojo cabinet in bowing out of the picture apologized for the "government's meager power to the men on the fighting front and the 100,000,000 people of Japan," and said that it was making way "for a more powerful cabinet in order to renew the public spirit and to strive toward an all out effort for the prosecution of the war."

Tojo and his ministers acknowledged that despite their repeated efforts they were not strong enough to prosecute the war.

Resign Tuesday

The resignations actually were handed to Emperor Hirohito on Tuesday morning.

In an early transmission to the controlled Japanese press, Domei went to the extent of distributing material disparaging to the Tojo regime. One passage said that the Japanese people could not give their best efforts under such a government and that industrial leaders could not do their best under its leadership. This material subsequently was ordered suppressed.

In giving the reason for the resignations at another point, Domei said:

"The reason, to put it straightforwardly, is that the individuality of the Tojo cabinet was unable to keep up with the intensity of the burning war spirit of the people."

The official announcement said: "By utilizing all means available the present cabinet was not able to achieve its objective; here, then, the government has finally decided to renovate its personnel in order to continue to prosecute the war totally, and having recognized the fact that it was most appropriate to carry out a resignation of the cabinet, Premier Tojo of the Tojo cabinet, gathered together the resignations of each member of the cabinet and presented them to the emperor."

Tojo became premier two years and nine months ago on the fall of the cabinet of Prince Konoye on October 17, 1941.

Aircraft And Oil Plants In Leipzig Area Are Blasted

LONDON, July 20.—(INS)—In a powerful series of simultaneous assaults, giant armadas totaling more than 1,200 American heavy bombers ripped a number of Nazi aircraft and synthetic oil plants in the Leipzig area of Germany today.

Targets included airplane engine factories, fighter assembly plants and synthetic oil refineries, an official announcement said.

The big Fortresses and Liberators were escorted by strong formations of Mustang, Thunderbolt and Lightning fighters. Nazi sources said fierce aerial battles were waged in the skies over both the southern and central sectors of the Reich during the daylight hours.

No Relaxing Of Shoe Rationing

NEW YORK, July 20.—(INS)—The office of Price administration sees no hope of relaxing shoe rationing, certainly "not this year," the American public was advised today by Charles Phillips, deputy OPA administrator in charge of rationing.

With civilian shoe inventories heading for the lowest point in years and with military needs for leather still running high, Phillips said rationing will continue as before but he held out some hope of relief in the shortage of infants' and children's shoes.

BUILT ON A ROCK
NEW YORK — (INS)—Victory Gardeners in New York City will have a harder time than most U. S. citizens this year because the city's rocky and sparse soil demands more than generous portions of fertilizer. Frank C. Hersman, soil specialist at the New York State Institute of Agriculture at Farmingdale, Long Island, said the earth must be treated with numerous and heavy applications of organic matter and fertilizers to keep it producing through 1944.

SEEK LAND MINES
ALGIERS.—(INS)—Now that the Tunisian campaign is over, it is necessary to dig out all the land mines which the armies had left on the battlefields. The mines are blocking roads and fields, stopping traffic and hampering farming. The problem is highly complicated. Nearly a million bombs have been hidden. A total of 5,000 Allied technicians, and 185,000 French soldiers have been working at the gigantic task.

Many Areas Benefit from Calcium Chloride Treatment

Since Calcium Chloride is so effective in dust-proofing roads it is obvious that its benefits extend to many other areas where dust is both a nuisance and a danger.

Here, for instance, are a few places where Calcium Chloride has become the standard practice for dust-laying:

- Parking Lots
- Playgrounds
- Baseball Diamonds
- Private Roads and Drives
- Service Station Driveways
- Road-Stand Areas
- Tennis Courts

Wherever it is used in areas such as these, it not only makes the surface more usable, but prevents dust from blowing over grass, shrubbery or into houses, or other places where it is a menace to health.

Hillman Kills Byrnes Chances

CIO Leader Overrides Presumed Endorsement Of President For Byrnes

CHICAGO, July 20.—(INS)—The vice-presidential candidacy of James F. Byrnes, who springs from old-time South Carolina stock, was killed outright today by the disapproval of a Russian-born immigrant who has become a political czar in the United States, Sidney Hillman.

According to a report from inner Democratic circles, Byrnes, who sacrificed a life-time place on the supreme court bench to direct the nation's war economy, had the approval above all others of the presumed dictator of the Democratic party, President Roosevelt.

Until 3 p. m., yesterday, Byrnes was the top selection of the politically wise for the vice presidential nomination. But at 3 p. m. the man from Russia proved himself at least as powerful, and perhaps more so, than the president.

"Not Acceptable" For Hillman at that hour announced that Byrnes was "not acceptable" to the political action committee of the congress of industrial organizations, of which Hillman is chairman.

The men in the Democratic inner circle threw up their hands at once. They retreated promptly from their previously absolute assertions that Byrnes would be the nominee.

With Hillman against him, they said, it was highly doubtful that Byrnes could win.

Later they speculated whether Hillman before the end of the week can further prove himself the Democratic party czar by dictating the renomination of Henry A. Wallace.

For, in his case at a news conference, Hillman made it plain that Wallace is his man that he will not trade that none but Wallace will satisfy him.

INGHAM IMPRESSED

Sheriff M. M. Ingham has just returned from the sheriff's convention held at Pittsburgh the early part of the week. It was strictly business at the convention, and one thing which interested the sheriff was the demonstration of firearms and different cases to control criminals.

Another thing which impressed the Sheriff was an address which showed the results of a survey conducted in Meadville by students of Allegheny college on the way the townfolk there voted. Many classes of business and professional men failed to exercise their right of franchise and a large number did not even bother to get registered to vote, yet they were among the classes which generally discuss politics in a loud and vociferous manner.

Senator Nye Is Renominated By North Dakotans

BISMARCK, N. D., July 20.—(INS)—Virtual completion of the count of soldiers' absentee votes Wednesday showed that Sen. Gerald P. Nye (R) of North Dakota was assured of renomination.

The soldiers voted for Nye in almost the same proportion as the state's civilian population and Nye's margin of 958 votes over Lynn U. Stambaugh, former national commander of the American Legion, was only five more than in the last tabulation of last month's primary election balloting when the soldier vote had not been counted.

Among various islands in which he has seen action are: Bougainville, New Georgia Islands, Guadalcanal, Russell Island and the Pitt Islands. Needless to say, Pfc. Christofer has an interesting tale to tell about the encounter with the "sneak enemies."

Pfc. Christofer arrived in San Francisco, and later reported at Ft. Meade, Md., where he received a 30-day furlough. He is the husband of Mrs. Angeline Christofer, 826 Oak street, and son of Mr. and Mrs. John Christofer, 826 Oak street.

Scheidemantle In Jap Burial Service

Chaplain, Son Of Mrs. Mary Scheidemantle, Officiates At Burial Of 300 Japs

Word comes from Saipan, Marianas Islands, in the Pacific, that Lieut. Harry Scheidemantle, Navy Chaplain, of Minerva, Ohio, took part in a recent religious service at the burial ground of 300 Jap soldiers at that place. In the service he prayed, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Protestant, Catholic, and Buddhist prayers were read from an improvised altar laid on the front end of a badly battered Jap tank.

Chaplain Scheidemantle is a son of Mrs. Mary E. Scheidemantle, of West Madison avenue, and was pastor of the Presbyterian church at Minerva.

He is a graduate of New Castle High School, Muskingum College and Princeton Theological Seminary.

TAG, YOU'RE IT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (INS) — Starlings played tag with Springfield firemen recently. The firemen attempted to drive the birds from ledges on a downtown building. Before they could turn on the water the starlings flew to the opposite side of the structure. The firemen followed but the birds returned to their original location. This procedure continued for some time. The firemen finally tried to swamp the starlings in flight but could not hit the elusive targets. Unsuccessful, they gave it up in disgust.

Keep Nurses Busy

On the job on the school front are the registered nurses of the local district, who made 756 visits to schools and 322 visits to homes during the 1943-44 school year, according to their report to the school board, released by the superintendent of schools, Frank L. Burton.

During the visits to the schools and the 87 general classroom inspections, the nurses gave 2,011 advisements and local treatments at the schools. Nine children were taken to physicians, dentists or clinics, the report stated.

Only one student was sent home because of impetigo, but 52 were excluded because of pediculosis. Spending 314 hours with the medical inspector examining pupils, the nurses assisted in examinations of the feet in two clinics for crippled children, in giving T. B. tests and readines, in administering diphtheria toxoid and in rationing.

Seventy-five couples were married at a mass ceremony recently in Tampico, Mexico.

Truman Endorsed For Second Spot

President Roosevelt Sends Special Endorsing Candidacy of Missourian

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
L.N. Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 20.—(INS)—President Roosevelt backed up his choice of Sen. Harry S. Truman of Missouri as a running mate today by sending a special letter, endorsing the Missourian to Democratic National Chairman Robert Hannegan.

Convention leaders were holding the letter in reserve for disclosure to the delegates in event the followers of Vice President Henry A. Wallace attempt to "blitz" the Missourian as they previously defeated War Mobilization Director James F. Burnes of South Carolina.

The President personally approved the nomination of Truman in a telephone conversation with convention leaders late yesterday afternoon. This failed however to satisfy some delegations, who asked for more light on the President's wishes.

Liquor Industry Exceeds Bond Quota

HARRISBURG, July 20.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's 17,000 retail liquor licensees were revealed today by the state liquor control board to have sold $33,000,000 worth of war bonds during the Fifth War Loan Drive.

The board said a quota of $25,000,000 was assigned by the treasury department to the Pennsylvania liquor and wine industry and predicted that final reports would boost the bond sale to $10,000,000 over the quota.

No Gasoline, But How About Tires

ROSSFORD, O. July 20.—(INS)—Rossford will have one motorist resident this fall who doesn't worry about gasoline rationing—if he can get tires.

He is C. E. Dowall, a 77-year-old stationary engineer, who is converting his automobile into a "steam-mobile."

Dowall estimated that when he gets the change from gasoline to steam engine made he will be able to get about 225 miles on a bushel of coal.

Old timers still recall the steam automobiles which were operated around the year of 1910. The cars were noted for their quiet operation.

The only objection to the steam-car, Dowall said, was the fact that one had to wait about an hour to "get up steam" if the car had been standing any time and the weather is cold.

Dowall estimated that the conversion will cost him about $300. He expects to travel to Florida in the converted car as soon as it is finished, he said.

RURAL LINES

JUICE FOR THE FARMER

Running a farm at any time is really a man-sized job. Now, with a shortage of hired help, the stress of it is terrific. Fortunately 89 per cent of the farmers in the area served by the Pennsylvania Power Company have electricity. Our rural extension program brought cheap power to them. Electricity is relieving these folks of a lot of time waste and labor. It's making work easier. Many of these farmers would like to extend the use of electricity on their farms. Appliance scarcity limits this expansion, so such desires are being resolved into post-war plans.

Many progressive farmers without electricity have their post-war plans, too. Electricity is to have its part in them. As soon as restrictions are eased, they want electric lines and service installed. We have talked to many of these and assured them that as soon as it is possible we will see that their needs are met.

We can make a program of rural line extension if we have the information needed. If you don't have electric service now but plan to have, let's get together and work out the preliminaries. Mail the coupon below, and we will give it the earliest possible attention.

What can I do now to permit the extension of electric service as soon as possible? I live approximately _____ distance from an existing line.

"The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 23 is Judges 4 and 5. The Golden Text being Esther 4:14. Who knoweth whether thou art not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

Once more we have an account of the unfaithfulness of the Israelites to their God who so blessed them. It is an ever recurring story. For their wickedness they were sold into the hand of Jabin, king of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor. The captain of Jabin's host was Sisera, "which dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles." This captain had 900 chariots of iron, and for 20 years he mightily oppressed the children of Israel.

Now Deborah was a prophetess and the wife of Lapidoth. Her husband doesn't enter much into the picture. It was Deborah who was the strong one and the inspiration of her people. She dwelt, the story says, under a palm tree between Ramah and Bethel in Mount Ephraim; "and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment." For years there were two trees in this vicinity, both named after Deborah, one an oak and the other a palm.

Deborah Calls Barak

Deborah "sent and called Barak son of Abinoam, out of Kedesh-naphtali and said unto him, Hath not the Lord God of Israel commanded, saying, Go and draw toward mount Tabor, and take with

Futile Effort
But after belt of gun defenses are doing their utmost to slow the progress along the Caen-Vimont road, Perier, southwest of Cagny on the Caen-Vimont road, was captured.

Merchants Asked To Help Sale Of Bonds

Ask Retail Merchants Of State To Conduct Special Sales Next
Tuesday And Wednesday

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(INS)—Retail merchants throughout

Pennsylvania were asked today to sponsor a special drive next Tuesday and Wednesday to promote the sale of E bonds in the state's lagging Fifth War Loan campaign.

George P. Gable, of Altoona, state chairman of the war finance committee's retail division called on retailers, cooperating with newspapers in weekend advertising, to "mop up with E's". The drive ends July 31.

Sales to individuals were still far short of the state quota despite an additional $3,600,000 reported through Tuesday. G. Ruhlman Rebmann, Jr., state war finance committee chairman said.

Individual sales rose to $358,500, or 81.1 percent of quota. Series E bond sales totaled $156,700,000 or 69.9 percent of that goal, while corporations subscribed $813,400,000 or 127.1 percent of their quota.

U.S. Airmen Fly 'Highways' To Global Points

DODGE CITY, Kan.—Army pilots can travel from the Dodge City Army Air Field to India, Africa, China, England or South America over a well-marked highway that is "visible" day and night—and through drowning rain, lowering fogs and swirling snowstorms.

Pilots say they are riding "home on the range" or being "on the beam." They refer to the signals emitted from radio ranges that mark these airways. The pilot sees these "highways" with his eyes, as well as his ears, for he follows a described route at any time, under any conditions, merely by listening to the chirp in his earphones.

Under normal conditions and in good weather, Marauder B-26 pilots from this base fly "on contact." Their route may be independent of the beam for training purposes, but they are in constant two-way radio contact with the field. They use the radio range system as an auxiliary aid except in emergencies and bad weather.

Recently, a large number of students were flying near Dodge City when the weather suddenly closed in, so that the pilots could not see the ground. The pilots merely flipped a switch on their radios and rode the beam safely into the field. But at one time such an occurrence probably would have caused the loss of several planes and crews.

In operation of a radio beam, signals are emitted along a pre-determined course. On one side, for a width varying from 10 to 20 miles, the signal is radio code for letter "a"—a dot and a dash. On the other side, the signal changes to an "n"—a dash and a dot. Air traffic usually proceeds to the right of the beam.

The pilot can tell exactly how far he is from the center of the "highway" by the intensity of the signals. When he's riding exactly down the center, he gets a continuous signal, as the "a" and "n" blend into one constant tone.

In addition to beam stations, there are fan markers and radio beacon markers along the route that throw a vertical radio signal straight upwards. At the exact moment a plane passes over one of these markers, a series of long chirps is heard in the earphones and a light flashes on the instrument panel. Both the radio beam and the fan markers break their regular mechanical chirping to identify themselves with individual call letters, so pilots may know exactly which beam is guiding them and what marker they have passed.

Radio range stations, operated by the Army Airways Communications System, reach to the farthest corners of the world. They have been built in the Australian bush, where heavy fences protect them from kangaroos. Native laborers helped install ranges in the rice paddies of India and China, hauling ultra-modern equipment in crude bullock-drawn carts. Eskimos sometimes quit work on range stations because the weather was too cold for them.

But without these facilities that help maintain the flow of fighter and cargo planes to the men at the fronts, flying would indeed be hazardous. Instead, army aircraft, taking off every minute of every hour of the day and night, can fly safely to their destinations along the invisible but audible "highways" in the sky.

Not To Divulge Armistice Terms For Nazi Germany

LONDON, July 20.—(INS)—Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, categorically stated in the House of Commons Wednesday that armistice terms to the Germans will not be published in advance to the Germans; that the House of Commons will not be informed and will not be invited beforehand to approve the conditions.

Armistice terms, he declared, are a military matter which are entirely the responsibility of the government.

Eden made this statement in the course of yet another debate in the British parliament on terms to Germany, a subject which is increasingly occupying the interest of members of parliament, newspapers and the British public generally.

Japs Attempt By-Passing Of Yank Troops

Japs Attempt To Sneak
Around Americans
Through Foothills
Of Aitape

ENEMY REAR AREAS HEAVILY BOMBED

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HQ, New Guinea, July 20.—(INS)—Japanese forces, frustrated in their attempts to break through American lines east of Aitape, were revealed today to be trying to by-pass the Yank positions by snaking through the foothills of a mountain range 13 miles inland from New Guinea's northern coast.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in a communique that the Japs have been observed trying to get around the right flank of American forces through the foothills of the Furell mountains, but gave no further details.

The communique disclosed that another 582 Japs of the trapped 18th Imperial army have been killed in the jungle warfare of the past ten days, raising the total enemy dead to date to 1,369.

Movements Hampered
Twin-engine Mitchell bombers and fighter planes continued to blast enemy rear areas while naval units shelled coastal traffic, hampering the Japs' efforts to break out of their death trap.

Adverse weather curtailed air operations in other sectors of the southwest Pacific battle area, but allied air patrols over the Dutch East Indies sank a 2,000-ton freighter off Morotai island and heavily damaged two trawlers farther north. Liberator bombers again hit the island of Yap in the western Carolines, dropping 23 tons of bombs on the airfield. Eight Jap planes attempted to intercept the four-engine raiders and one was shot down while two others were probably destroyed.

Other allied bombers struck at enemy installations at Ngulu, Sorol, Ulithi and Woleai islands in the Carolines.

Believe Sentiment Swinging To G.O.P.

See New Trend In Mining Communities As New Deal Loses Favor

NEW YORK, July 20.—(INS)—A definite swing in sentiment toward the Republican party was pointed out today by Herbert Brownell, Jr., National Republican chairman, in the mining communities of Pennsylvania, Illinois, West Virginia and other sections.

Brownell said mining families in these sections were becoming dissatisfied with the New Deal. He emphasized the new potential support for the Dewey-Bricker Republican ticket, although he declined to comment on an editorial in the United Mine Workers of America newspaper which endorsed the Republican presidential slate.

Miners and their wives believe that their chances of jobs in the postwar era would be better under a Republican administration, Brownell said. "This change in their sentiment undoubtedly will play a part in the Republican victory."

Local Soldier Escorts British King, Queen

Cpl. James "Jimmy" DeLillo of the U. S. Army Air Force, stationed somewhere in England, as a ground mechanic, certainly had a thrilling experience "to write home about," his most recent letter informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John DeLillo of 305 Canyon street.

The 20-year-old mechanic is stationed at a repair base somewhere in England and was chosen to escort King George and Queen Elizabeth through the base on one of their recent tours.

Corporal DeLillo chatted with Queen Elizabeth and tells his mother that she is a charming woman and did the utmost at making the American boys feel at home. He proudly reported that his quarters were prepared for military inspection at the time the royal family arrived. Also included with the royal party was General Doolittle.

Mr. and Mrs. DeLillo have another son, Cpl. Joseph DeLillo, somewhere in France.

Girl Scouts Plan Week's Last Program

Rounding off the second week of Girl Scout Day camp, the campers are planning a circus for Friday afternoon, according to Mrs. Marjorie Miller, scout executive.

Each unit will take part, bringing some part of the atmosphere of a three ring show to Cascade park.

Regular unit activities of the camp set-up were interrupted by Wednesday's rain, but instead of going home, the Brownies staged the treasure hunt they had planned, and the whole camping group gathered in the community house for puppet shows.

Making the actors out of paper bags, the girls presented "Three Blind Mice," "Peter Rabbit," "Red Riding Hood," and a miniature wedding. Peter Rabbit was made out of paper bags as were the rest of the marionettes, but he was dressed up with blue paper trousers and ears. The bride at the wedding had little veil, but she made up for it by carrying a large bouquet of cellophane flowers.

TENT MISSING
Mrs. Imhoff, rear 324 Shaw street, today informed police headquarters a small tent was stolen from the Imhoff yard yesterday.

Japs Hate Him

AT HOME in Plainfield, Ill., is 26-year-old Col. John Philip (Jock) Henery, pictured above with his sister, Sally. The young colonel has been on 142 combat missions and is holder of three air medals, three Distinguished Flying Crosses, the Silver Star and the Purple Heart. His flying group, the "Grim Reapers," has to its credit 600 Jap planes, 130,000 tons of shipping sunk and 150,000 tons damaged. (International)

Neshannock Vol. Firemen Meeting

Neshannock Township Volunteer Firemen held their monthly meeting in Fairview School House on Tuesday night, when discussions of importance were taken up.

It was voted to purchase two gas masks and a new First Aid kit for the fire truck. President Ed. Miller appointed on a committee to purchase and install same, the following: M. Brooks, James Allen, R. Morgan and T. Sadler.

Announcement was made by Secretary R. Morgan that the organization purchased four one hundred dollar war bonds in the Fifth War Loan drive.

Attention was given to the securing of a new location for the fire truck, the presently occupied garage having been rented. A committee to investigate the matter was named.

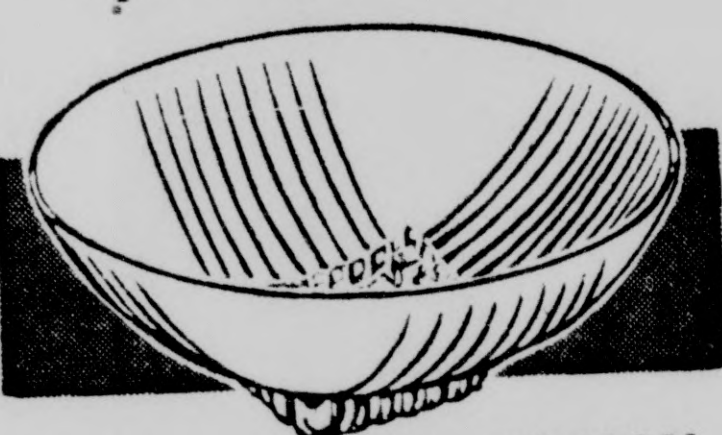

A social time featured the closing hours, with refreshments served by Chairman H. Walton and his committee.

GROVE CITY FILLS 90 DEFENSE HOMES

GROVE CITY, July 20.—A total of 90 privately financed defense homes have been completed and practically all occupied here since last September. Many of the families have moved to Grove City from other communities. The larger project, 60 brick 6-room homes erected by C. H. and C. B. Montgomery, are having the final touches this week, and the Book-Davis Co. is completing a block of 10 frame houses, having built and sold 20 in the first project.

Blames Sight When He Misses

Ex-Marine, Now 'Targetter', Has Shot 75,000 'Paper Nazis' Up To Present

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(INS)—Ed Doyle, former marine corps crack shot, has bull's-eyed more than 75,000 "paper Nazis".

Undisputed holder for the last 21 years of a triple world's shooting record, Doyle uses his uncanny marksmanship to test Uncle Sam's new carbines for accuracy before they leave the big Winchester Repeating Arms Company.

His job is called "targetting". He shoots the semi-automatic carbine at three-inch bull's-eyes at 50 yards and at five-inch bull's-eyes at 100 yards.

He seldom misses. So expert is Doyle's marksmanship that if he misses, it is because the sight of his gun needs readjustment. Carbines don't graduate from his marksmanship course until they hit a "paper Nazi" in the bull's-eye. Doyle has already bull's-eyed more than 75,000 Winchester carbines.

Doyle first won world-wide recognition for his marksmanship as a member of the marine corps team squad of 1923. Then a 22-year-old sergeant, Doyle established the present triple-headed world's record for the Swiss match event, by shooting 201 consecutive bull's-eyes on the 500-yard range, on a 16-inch bull's-eye, instead of the standard 20-inch. The triple title thus includes consecutive hits, distance, and size of the bull's-eye.

Doyle also was a member of the marine corps team squad that won the national team match at Camp Perry, Ohio, in 1922. Thirteen years later, as a member of the Quinpiac Rifle club, of New Haven, he helped set another world's record in the Palma team match at Camp Ritchie, Maryland, and the following year the National Rifle Association rated him as one of the nation's best small bore marksmen.

A Master-Shooter
The former marine corps sergeant, now 43 years old, was born in Wallingford, Conn., and has been a shooter since he was a boy. He worked at Winchester in 1918 and 1919 and left for a four years' hitch with the marine corps. It was while he was with the marines that he made his famous record. Since 1927, when he returned to Winchester, his unerring marksmanship has earned him living for him.

As a targeteer, he was "graduated for accuracy" sporting arms ranging from caliber 22 rifles to high-powered big game guns. Today Doyle is one master-shooter who is more valuable on the production line than at the front, and he uses his rare shooting skill "targetting" the carbine which his company developed in the world's record time of only 13 days.

Inventor Asking Prohibitive Sum

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—(INS)—Three federal judges today were considering a government appeal from a temporary order obtained by an inventor of an airplane starter who seeks to collect royalties the war and navy departments consider "excessive."

The inventor, Roscoe A. Coffman of Las Vegas, Nev., obtained his temporary order last June preventing the Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Pittsburgh, and the Breeze Corporation of Newark, N. J., from following war and navy department orders to turn over to the treasury all but $50,000 a year of the royalties which Coffman claims. Coffman, meanwhile, is suing for $371,000.

The government presented its appeal before Circuit Judge Charles Alvin Jones and Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker of the federal district court at Pittsburgh.

He added that another order authorizing production of experimental models of proposed consumer goods was expected to be issued July 22.

"This is the first move toward the reconversion of American industry and should prove of great benefit in planning for the creation of jobs in the postwar period," he said.

He stated that the agreement reached by WPA officials, military leaders and manpower authorities removing the restrictions on the use of aluminum and magnesium was a step favorable to Pennsylvania.

Girl Back Home Still Has Chance

COLUMBUS, O., July 20.—(INS)—Soldiers usually marry the "girl back home," said Chaplain Gerald J. Bishoff of nearby Lockbourne army air base, in revealing that he has officiated at 81 such ceremonies since February 1943.

"Most of the air base weddings are the termination of many attempts of the engaged couples to get together for the big event," said the chaplain.

In order to make up for the lack of a home town church wedding, Chaplain Bishoff said, it is the policy of the post to give the couples as beautiful a ceremony as possible.

PATRIOTIC THINKING
DOYLESTOWN, Pa.—(INS)—Workers were told by Lieut. Comm. Carl Estes, speaker at the unveiling of a veterans' monument at Doylestown, to "hit the sawdust trail which leads to the mourners' bench" and to "purge their minds of selfishness." He added "A lot of patriotic thinking will have to be done if faith be kept with our war dead."

FIGS
Dried figs make a highly concentrated and very nutritious food. They contain protein, sugar and fat, all three.

They have a lot of iron and are strong on vitamins. Two dried figs supply over 100 calories.

Their small bulk makes them nice for a lunch box. Figs and milk make a fine combination.

The skins and seeds provide valuable bulk which is not digested. They may be had all the year round, winter and summer.

They are sweet enough that they do not need any sugar which means something nowadays.

REFERENDUM
HARRISBURG—In a referendum held in Indiana county on proposed extension of the Black Lick Soil Conservation district to cover the entire county, fewer than 65 per cent of those landowners who voted gave approval, and the proposal was lost, the State Soil Conservation board announced today.

PLANES TO SIZE
NEW YORK.—(INS)—A plane to fit the "figger" is the thing now—advances for women air force service pilots. Dr. Alice Burns, anthropologist, took measurements of members of the service to determine average dimensions. Three types were chosen and then the General Plastic Corporation of Chicago went to work to cast models of those dimensions. The mannequins of cellulose acetate plastic, produced from these models by E. L. du Pont de Nemours & Co., will enable plane designers to adjust the interiors of planes to fit the lady pilots.

New Jap Leaders Are Opportunists

Gen. Kiso Hardly Known,
Admiral Yonai Picked For Overseas "Popularity"

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(N. S. Foreign Editor)

"Another methodical build in Japan's decades-old program of expansion and aggression was begun in Tokyo today with establishment of a double-barreled army-navy premiership to replace the burned-out government of General Hideki Tojo.

Overshadowing military developments in Europe, which included the Allied gains in France and rapid Soviet advances toward the Polish rail center of Lwow, the steps taken by Emperor Hirohito for creation of a new "opportunistic" cabinet maintained the focus of international attention upon the Far East.

Official Slave Driver
Two men were picked from the braided and bearded ranks of Japanese militarists to step into Tojo's battered boots.

One was a comparative nonentity—Gen. Kuniaki Kiso, just another high-ranking Japanese soldier who gained transitory fame by pillaging the rich and ancient Chinese province of Jehol in 1932 and of late years has been official slave-driver in occupied Korea.

But the other was a personage of prime importance—a former premier and navy minister, a figure known throughout the world and significantly in that infinitesimal group of prominent Japanese who before the war enjoyed personal "popularity" with Americans and British.

He is Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai and it already is apparent his task—if he succeeds in forming a workable government—will be to make the best of a bad job, whether this be in war or attempted peace.

Yonai for many years was the "front man" for that section of rigorously-controlled Japanese politics which sedulously spread the fiction of continued friendly relations with the United States and Great Britain.

In the troubled times that followed Japan's denunciation of the nine power pact and the Washington Naval treaty, when that nation's secret preparations for war no longer could be shielded from the world, Yonai was yanked to the forefront in an effort to cloak realities with his ready smile.

Dragon Picked
He was identified as the hand-picked choice of Prince Immucho Saionji, the now dead chief "elder statesman" of Japan whose wisdom and culture for so long had given the Japanese war party and the infamous Black Dragon society a mantle of decency for their nefarious activities.

Yonai was named minister of the navy and then premier. Almost every dispatch filed by American and British correspondents from Tokyo during his tenure of office emphasized his peace-loving nature.

and while much was said of his ability as a fleet admiral, he was characterized always merely as an advocate of preparedness and strength in the Pacific areas where Japan's dominance was more or less accepted.

If the emperor and his imperial war council have decided that the jig is up for the present and that some sort of peace overtures are in order, Yonai is a man whom the Japanese consider a sufficiently able negotiator to put over a compromise.

If, on the other hand, the Japanese realize that Cordell Hull meant what he said on December 7, 1941, Yonai is still the right man to fight what remains of the Pacific war through to the inevitable defeat of Japan. It is now apparent that the Nipponese made an irretrievable mistake when they put supreme command in the hands of an army man for a war destined to be decided upon the sea.

Official announcements from Tokyo gave short shrift to Tojo, whose eventual retirement as premier became fairly obvious on Tuesday when he was dismissed as chief of staff.

No Moderates
Well-informed observers were inclined to look with skepticism upon characterizing Loni and Kiso as liberals and moderates. In the Japanese warrior code, despite surface indications, there are no such things.

Actual war developments found the British fighting east and southeast of Caen against stiff resistance from German artillery and dug-in tanks in preparation for a major mechanized battle between mobile units expected to develop at any time. Russian troops came within sight of Lwow in Poland as the Soviet offensive moved ahead on all fronts, while in Italy, Nazi forces were pushed back steadily north of Livorno and American units drove to within 8½ miles of Pisa at the western end of the so-called "Gothic Line."

Sports Writer Goes Political

Bill Corum Finds Senator
Truman May Be "Place
Horse" Of Convention

By BILL CORUM
(N. S. Special Correspondent)

CHICAGO, July 20.—(NS)—They are saying around here that Harry Truman, of Missouri, may be the "place horse" of the Democratic entry in the November presidential race. That sort of comes right down our center alley, since as a boy we developed the muscles of our arm carrying gasoline torches for Beauchamp Clark, "Gum Shoe Bill" Stone, "Woody Dell Jim" Reed, David B. Francis and Lon V. Stephens of the embattled democracy of Missouri.

Nowhere does the torch of politics burn brighter than in the show me state, especially when there is a good hot scrap on the docket. To be sure in our later years we have drifted off into the fairer and more pleasant fields of sport.

Stirring Memories
But the candidacy of Mr. Truman for the vice-presidential nomination stirs old memories and reminds us that it has been a long time since a guy from the rich bottoms of the big muddy poked his noggin above the shimmering yellow wheat and the tall corn as a nationally important figure in politics.

The redoubtable Senator Reed, friend of our family and as charming an old school gentleman and orator as anybody ever would want to meet, muffled his last long cry down in Houston more than a decade ago, when he suddenly, and almost unexplainably, turned his back on the wets in theory, if not in practice. And we still can figure out what led him into that political man trap.

The only explanation anybody ever has been able to give us is that "politics is politics" and, boys, when you are playing pinochle with the Democrats that's right, and don't ever forget it.

Don't Want Henry
Just for example, we asked a well-informed friend of ours exactly what had happened to Henry Wallace to put him on the sharp-tack seat among so many of the Demos in a span of four years.

"The farmers don't want Henry any more," he replied.

"Why, I always thought," we continued, "that Henry was the farmer's best friend."

"Yes," he replied, "but the farmers are strange people. He was their best friend then but now they consider him their severest critic. It reminds me of the story of Solomon and Shaprio."

Solomon was Shaprio's best friend. He paid off the mortgage on Shaprio's house. He saved Shaprio's business. He paid the doctor's bills when Shaprio's wife went to the hospital. He sent Shaprio's son to college.

But then came a day when Shaprio rounded on Solomon and denounced him. So a third friend went to Shaprio and said: "Hey, you're being a terrible ingrate. Don't you know all the things that Solomon has done for you?" And then he proceeded to enumerate the things listed above.

"That's right," agreed Shaprio blandly, "and every word you say is true. But what's he done for me in the last two weeks?"

Women Have Part In Platform Job

Favor International Cooperation But Shy Away
From Race Issue

By JANE COCHRAN
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, July 20.—Tired but triumphant, Democratic women platform framers sat back today as the party's planks were presented to the convention—a platform they'd helped to shape from the beginning until the end in the early hour of the morning.

They'd sat through weary hours of testimony and debate over the issues of the convention—the racial question, equal rights controversy, agriculture and the lot—but their main interest centered in foreign affairs. The women wanted, above all else, the assurance that this war would end all wars.

Outnumber Men
"Women outnumbered the men in testimony on foreign affairs," asserted Rep. Mary Norton, of New Jersey, co-chairman of the platform committee. "They were all intensely interested—no matter what else they favored—in endorsing as strong a foreign relations plank as was possible to write."

Women, for the first time, were present in the "smoke-filled room" as members of the drafting committee, which whipped the platform into final shape, and they had equal representation on the platform committee and sub-committee. Rep. Norton and Mrs. N. T. Stewart of Selma, Kas., worked through the night as members of the final drafting committee.

Doris I. Byrnes, associate chairman of the New York State Democratic committee and one of the 12 women on the platform sub-committee, praised the deep awareness of women—committee members as well as those who testified before the committee—on the question of foreign affairs.

"They were almost unanimously in favor of international co-operation and determined on assuring a permanent peace," she said. Women, however, left the controversial racial question mainly to the discussion of the men, she added.

Puffing Pooch Returns

PARAMUS, N. J.—(NS)—The "puffing pooch" of Paramus is back at his old tricks again, after a year's retirement. A German shepherd dog of unidentified ownership, but with larcenous habits, the pooch's latest loot was a leather jacket which Franklin Baker took off while mowing his lawn. Police were unable to trace the animal but they recalled that last year they uncovered a cache of shoes and hats which the dog had stolen and buried in the woods.

MEET MIMI MILLER---SHE'S PERISCOPICALLY PERFECT

THIS PIN-UP picture of Miss Mimi Miller of New London, Conn., soon will grace the walls of the wardrooms of United States submarines throughout the world. Mimi was picked as "Miss Periscope," the Girl We'd Most Like to See Through a Periscope, by workers of the Electric Boat company of New London, builders of submarines. Miss Miller should make an ideal "Sweetheart of the Submarines" for her job is to help build the sub. There were 15 other candidates.

The Indian rhinoceros, once known species, sometimes exceeding five feet in height and 10 feet in length, is now restricted almost entirely to the Assam plain, living chiefly in grassy jungles. It is the largest.

STOCK MARKET IS FIRM AND ACTIVE

Favorable War News Causes Market Recovery Today; Rails Lead Rebound

NEW YORK, July 20.—(INS)—The stock market was firm and fairly active today and continued its recovery on the favorable war news.

The rebound was again led by the rails. Gains ran from fractions to more than a point. Business expanded and ran ahead of Wednesday's 1,138,700 shares.

New highs featured many of the carriers, including New York Central, Great Northern, Bk. and Atchafalaya. Others to gain were Northern Pacific, Delaware & Hudson and Southern Railway.

Rail equipments also were active led by Pullman, up more than a point. American Car & Foundry and American Locomotive up fractionally.

Steels were quiet but firm. U. S. Steel scored a large fraction on fairly light transactions but others in this group were inclined to turn dull.

The plaque to be unveiled is different from any other in the city. Not only will it contain the names of those from that district now in military service, but will also contain their photographs. More than 200 names and pictures have been placed on the six by nine foot plaque.

It was built through donations from residents of the precinct assisted by some from persons outside the precinct and is being erected by Air Raid wardens.

Cakes For Soldiers Project Progressing

Men Stationed At Deshon Annex Assured Of Birthday Cakes By Local Women

One of the projects for the camp and hospital council of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, which is progressing exceptionally well is that of furnishing birthday cakes to the men stationed at the Annex. Mrs. Lyle Hughes, chairman, reports.

Members of two large organizations and 50 individuals have offered to bake birthday cakes for the boys at the Annex.

In addition, members of Emaline Rose Rebekah lodge, No. 37, baked cookies for a special party for the boys which was held this afternoon.

One of the boys stationed at the Annex received his birthday cake from a local mother who has a son in a Kentucky army camp.

Mrs. Hughes has written a letter to the mothers of the soldiers stationed at the Annex here, telling them that their sons are receiving birthday cakes through the interests of the New Castle women.

Any others wishing to assist, or any groups, are asked to call Mrs. Hughes.

Unions Don't Like Plant Wolves Either

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—(INS)—Far from agreement on a score of contract demands, including the smashing of the "little steel" wage formula, representatives of the Aluminum Company of America and the CIO Aluminum Workers Union today were solidly agreed on one issue.

It was that women employees of the firm under no circumstances should be expected to tolerate the unwanted advances of plant "wolves".

In the midst of a far-reaching War Labor Board panel hearing in Pittsburgh on the union's demands for wage increases of 15 cents, a 95-cent hourly minimum hiring rate, night work differentials, improved vacation, sick leave and other benefits, Alcoa's assistant personnel director, Robert A. Learnard reported the company had had to suspend two male employees for "molesting female employees". One of the men had been suspended twice for the same offense, he added.

"We have to take disciplinary action in such cases," he insisted. "If we do not, our standards, the company would get a bad reputation and women would be afraid to work for us."

Instead of disputing the assistant personnel director on this issue, as they had on most others raised during the hearing, union officials volunteered the opinion that the company, instead of suspending the two offenders, should have discharged them. They said the union itself had warned one of the alleged "wolves" to cut it out.

Says Social Work Isn't For Schools

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—(INS)—Members of the elementary school principals conference at the University of Pittsburgh today considered the warning of Dr. Henry H. Hill against public schools going too deeply into the realm of social welfare.

The superintendent of Pittsburgh public schools pointed out:

"In many instances in the United States, the schools have gone too far in the realm of social welfare so that baths have been provided, tonsillectomies, and, in fact, 'food, shelter and raiment'."

In my opinion, if activities are not primarily educational or unless the school is the best equipped agency to provide these betterments, it is a mistake to undertake them."
